Hiring Team

Airbnb
airbnb.com

Dear Airbnb Team,

Long before I led strategy and operations at a SaaS company, Airbnb made a big impact on my family. Over a decade ago, hosting on Airbnb helped us bridge the financial gap between a rental lease and our first home—a moment that shaped the trajectory of our lives. Since then, Airbnb has powered many of our happiest memories, from family road trips to international adventures.

Professionally, I've spent the last 12+ years building and scaling systems that support complex products and customer experiences. As VP of Operations at SpiderOak, I led programs spanning engineering, product, and customer success—driving global rollout strategies, cross-functional alignment, and high-quality delivery across space, defense, and enterprise markets. I'm comfortable navigating ambiguity, translating data into action, and leading teams through transformation.

What draws me to this role is the scope and ambition of Airbnb's Long-Term Stays business. I love the challenge of aligning stakeholders around growth strategy, and I'm energized by the idea of helping more guests experience what my family has: belonging, anywhere.

If this feels like a potential fit, I'd welcome the chance to chat more.

Warmly,
Adam Tervort
