Hiring Team
Marigold

Dear Marigold Team,

What drew me to this role is the opportunity to shape strategy from the inside out—combining market signals, product insight, and systems-level thinking to help build something cohesive and scalable. That’s been the throughline of my work, whether I was leading ops across a growing SaaS org or owning the martech stack for a product launch.

At SpiderOak, I led the marketing and sales infrastructure for our CrossClave product—setting up our unified Salesforce environment, integrating Google Analytics and AdWords, and migrating us to Salesforce Marketing Cloud from MailChimp. I’ve also led internal roadmap feedback systems, aligning product, customer, and GTM stakeholders through shared metrics and planning frameworks. I think in dashboards, but I also care deeply about narrative—why something matters and how we make it resonate internally.

This role at Marigold hits the exact balance I enjoy most: working across product, strategy, and communication to make sure everyone has clarity on where we’re going, what we’re building, and how it all connects. If it sounds like we might be aligned, I’d love to talk more.

Warmly,
Adam Tervort
