Dear Prelim Team,

I'm excited about what you're building at Prelim—and the chance to help more financial institutions open doors faster. For the last decade, I've led teams at a cybersecurity SaaS company, working closely with sales, product, and customer success to turn complex technical solutions into clear business outcomes.

While my title hasn't been "Account Executive," I've been in the room for high-stakes customer calls, partnered with sales teams to close enterprise deals, and led post-sale implementation efforts that made sure value landed fast. I've worked with CIOs and IT teams, but also with less technical buyers—helping them feel confident in what they were buying and why it mattered.

What sets me apart is how I build trust. Whether translating an API spec into plain English or guiding a skeptical executive through onboarding, I make people feel heard and supported. I believe sales is about solving the right problem, not pushing the solution. That's where I thrive.

I'd love to help Prelim scale its impact and keep your 2x growth on track. If this feels like a fit, I'd enjoy the chance to talk.

Warmly,
Adam Tervort
