Stripe Hiring Team
Stripe

Dear Stripe Team,

Stripe was a turning point for my career. I didn't come from a traditional tech background—my degree is in history, and I was paying the bills playing jazz bass. But when my company moved to Stripe from a legacy processor, I raised my hand to learn it. I devoured your docs, got elbows-deep in APIs, and helped our support team transition smoothly. That moment launched me into tech leadership and taught me how transformative Stripe's infrastructure can be—not just for businesses, but for the people working behind the scenes.

Since then, I've led cross-functional operations across engineering, product, finance, and customer success. At SpiderOak, I helped drive strategy during our Series C raise, align product and GTM initiatives across verticals, and launch internal systems to prioritize roadmap bets and model business tradeoffs. I'm comfortable owning ambiguous problems, translating between functions, and delivering clean execution across messy systems.

What draws me to this role is the chance to work on foundational questions: where Embedded Finance is headed, how we build for scale, and how Stripe can stay several moves ahead. That's the kind of thinking I love—and where I do my best work.

If this sounds like a fit, I'd love to connect.

Warmly,
Adam Tervort
